

Middleweight Interior Designer

We're looking for a creative, organised Middleweight Interior Designer with at least three years' experience to join our close-knit studio team in the Oxfordshire countryside.

Role	Middleweight Interior Designer
Experience	3+ years in residential interior design
Salary	Circa £38,000, depending on experience
Location	HÁM Studio, Hambleden, Henley-on-Thames, Oxfordshire
Working pattern	Full-time, studio-based, five days a week; UK and overseas project travel

About HÁM

HÁM is a family-run British design studio. We create homes that feel lived-in, working across architecture, interior architecture, joinery, build and interior decoration under one roof.

Recent work includes a West London home, a Cornish coastal cottage, and an 18th-century house on the Devon estuary restored as a family home. Our projects take us across the UK and Europe, and we also have a dedicated team working on projects in the USA.

The role

Working closely with our directors and design team, you'll contribute to various projects at different stages, balancing design work with practical coordination and installation support.

What you'll do:

- Develop design concepts, mood boards and schemes that reflect the HÁM style and each client's brief.
- Source, specify, schedule, order and track FF&E, including furniture, fabrics, lighting, finishes and accessories.
- Contribute to layouts, joinery and detailing, working with our wider team.
- Produce drawings and presentations using AutoCAD, InDesign and Photoshop.
- Present ideas to clients and coordinate with suppliers, artisans and contractors.
- Attend site visits and support project installations and final styling, ensuring every detail is finished to a high standard.

About you

You'll have at least three years' experience in residential interior design, a strong eye for detail and a practical, collaborative approach.

- Experience with FF&E, an understanding of interior architectural elements and knowledge of high-end residential suppliers.
- Ability to develop and communicate design ideas, with client-facing experience and proficiency in AutoCAD, Microsoft Office, InDesign and Photoshop.

- Excellent organisation and attention to detail, with the ability to juggle various projects, tasks and changing priorities.
- A proactive, hands-on attitude and a flair for styling and installations.
- Clear, confident communication with clients, suppliers and colleagues, and enthusiasm for working in a small, busy team.
- A willingness to learn from and support more experienced designers.
- A full, clean UK driving licence and access to your own car.

This is a full-time, office-based role, working from our Hambleden studio five days a week, with travel to projects in the UK and overseas.

Why join us

You'll join a friendly, close-knit creative team of designers, architects and makers who share a belief in doing things properly and beautifully.

- Room to grow. Work alongside our directors and learn across architecture, joinery, build and interiors, not just one discipline.
- Varied, characterful projects. From London townhouses to coastal cottages, country estates and commercial spaces in the UK, USA and Europe.
- A family business. A warm, personal studio where your ideas are heard and your work is seen.
- A beautiful place to work. Our studio sits in the Chiltern Hills, just outside Henley-on-Thames.
