PART TIME JUNIOR INTERIOR DESIGNER – LONDON

Due to expansion, we are seeking a super-organised individual with a passion for design to provide administrative, CAD and design support in our London studio for three days a week.

Ampersand is a long-established interior design company based in Edinburgh and London. We provide high-end Interior Architecture and FF&E design across multiple projects throughout the UK.

Reporting to the Senior Designer of our London studio in Chelsea's design quarter. this is the ideal opportunity for a recent Interior Design / Architecture graduate with a "can do" attitude to enter an exciting, creative industry.

Providing crucial, practical support you will be a methodical and organised individual with an ability to learn quickly and a willingness to embrace a variety of tasks.

Key responsibilities and skills:

- A degree in Interior Design or Interior Architecture.
- Proficient in CAD – ideally with knowledge of Vectorworks, SketchUp and Photoshop.
- Excellent communication skills, both written and verbal.
- A good eye for detail.
- The capacity to take instruction and effectively put tasks into action.
- The ability to work effectively alone as well as alongside others.

In return we offer the opportunity to be an integral member of our creative team working on exciting projects. Our benefits include a generous holiday allowance with additional paid leave between Christmas and New Year.

This is a part-time, permanent position working from our London studio with travel to projects occasionally required.

If this sounds like you and you are a conscientious, multi-tasker who can work efficiently under pressure please send your CV, portfolio and a persuasive covering letter to: callum@ampersandinteriors.co.uk
